YOUNG TODDLERS 2

Inside the Classroom: Spring is Here!

Spring is here and the young toddlers have been studying this season for a month long now. Teachers Belle Z , Belle Chou, and Susy provided various activities for the children to study the change in the season. In this activity the children created a sunflower using materials such as fabric, seeds, and straws. To enhance their fine motors skills the children used scissors, thumb and index finger to pick up black beans. When the activity was completed, the children could overgeneralize the plant, they pronounced “sunflower” and were curious about other flowers as they see in books, the playground and classrooms. At this moment the toddlers are in the process of observing their own plants grow- the life cycle of a plant.
